Link & Think - Careers is the latest cognitive stimulation activity from Active Minds. The game encourages great conversations by helping individuals talking about associations between, and opinions of various careers. Engaging discussions are inevitable when people begin chatting about what they enjoyed (or didn't) about their jobs. Is being a milkman harder than being a chef?

Link and Think was designed as a challenging conversational activity for people in early to mid stages of dementia. Using cognitive associations, this game helps you to discover more about the thoughts and opinions of those around you.

How it Works

Simply roll the dice and following the instructions such as; Pick 3 tiles, which is your favourite? Then select the tiles at random and discuss.
